

Royal wedding celebrations

Royal wedding fever sparks one big party!

REVELLERS young and old came together to celebrate the royal wedding at street parties throughout Waltham Forest.

As Prince William and Kate, now known as the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge, tied the knot on Friday neighbours toasted the happy couple and enjoyed the sunshine.

Oak Hill Gardens in Woodford Green and Winns Avenue in Walthamstow were among 24 streets in the borough which were closed to traffic for the day.

Families got together for a meal, followed by music entertainment, games and competitions.

Many wore costumes and painted their faces for the festivities at the Hare and Hounds pub in Lea Bridge Road, Leyton, and outside Ye Olde Rose and Crown in Hoe Street, Walthamstow.

Pub manager Joanne Barrett Constantinou, 21, said: "There were people of all ages there."

"Lots of children and elderly people came from a nearby nursing home."

"I was very excited. It was a lovely way to bring the community together and it was just a great excuse for a party."
